

WALT Recount an extreme experience.

Carefully, the instructor tied my harness round my waist and my thighs, she secured my backpack and made sure everything was in it; a first aid kit, food and water. It was time to get climbing... ✓✓

Finally, I reached the top. The bright, blue sea called ✓✓ to me, as I stood on the sharp, pointy edge of the rocky cliff. I wobbled across, getting ready to leap into action. I looked, from off the cliff, I watched the monstrous sea eat the surfers like it was ✓✓ munching popcorn. Fab!

"Am I going?... Wait... Don't answer that!" I questioned ^{and} ✓✓ answered myself. I was nudged, ^{2x} once, twice, three times and I fell. As I ~~got~~ plunged by Lia Manon Ferré-Dyenne!

Wednesday 4th January 2017

Sheet two

WALT Recount an extreme experience.

into the air, I immediately felt my hot, steamy face ~~face~~ being pulled back by the chilly, misty wind (as I was not wearing a facial, protective mask). - ~~also~~ almost straight away I regretted my decision.

"AAAAHHHHH... WNWOOOOOAAAAHHHH... IIIII...
BBBBBEEEE LLLLL IIIII VVVVEEEE... IIII... CCCAAANNN
... FFFF LLL YYY YP! !!!!!!" I yell enthusiastically.

I am falling very fast; screaming, very loud; and ending my life! At this stage, I felt like I had been falling for an hour, when really I'd only been falling for five minutes. It felt like my heart was being hit by a hammer, again, again and again, by the time I had ran ^(P) out of discouraging comments it was time to by Fia Marion Féné-Dyéme.....

Wednesday 4th January 2017

WALT Recount an extreme experience.

sheet three pull the rope...

Wonderful writing! You made me feel as though I were free-falling too!

You have experimented with a wide range of punctuation for effect. 1hp ★

A couple of (P) marks to check.

Are they the right choices?

Also - check your tenses are consistent.

by Lia Manon Ferré-Dyéenne